1. OBJECTIVE

- 1.1. Acibadem Sağlık Hizmetleri ve Ticaret A.Ş. including its subsidiaries, related corporations or any of its affiliates (collectively, referred to as "Acibadem Healthcare Group" or "AHG") is committed to conduct our business with integrity and has a zero-tolerance policy against all forms of bribery and corruption.
- 1.2. "Corporate and Clinical Ethics Procedure", "Discipline Procedure", "Denunciation and Complaint Procedure" and "Acibadem Ethical Values" sets out the standards of integrity and behavior that is required of our employees. "Denunciation and Complaint Procedure" provides an avenue for employees to raise concerns and offers protection from reprisals or victimization in line with the local and/or foreign whistle blowing related laws and regulations.
- 1.3. This procedure, elaborates upon those core principles, and promotes compliance by all employees with the anti-corruption laws that apply to AHG operations, including the anti-corruption laws of all countries in which AHG conducts business.
- 1.4. All employees shall comply with the anti-corruption laws in their respective jurisdictions and those of other jurisdictions that apply to them. Refer to Appendix 1 for the Legal Register.
- 1.5. All persons who perform services for or on behalf of AHG (hereinafter referred to as "Third Party and Representatives") shall comply with the relevant parts of the procedure when performing such work or services.
- 1.6. This procedure is not intended to provide definitive answers to all questions regarding bribery and corruption. Rather, it is intended to provide guidance to employees and persons who perform services for or on behalf of AHG (collectively "persons associated with a commercial organization") concerning how to deal with improper solicitation, bribery and other corrupt activities and issues that may arise in the course of business.
- 1.7. If any person subject to this procedure have any doubt about the scope of applicable laws or the application of the Group's policies concerning the fight against bribery and corruption, please contact the Irregularities Committee composed of Internal Audit, Legal and Enterprise Risk Management Departments.

2. SCOPE

- 2.1. It is binding for all employees, Third Party and Representatives of AHG.
- 2.2. Joint ventures and affiliated companies in which AHG participates as a non-controlling joint venture partner are also required to adopt similar principles and standards.
- 2.3. Please note that this procedure does not supersede any anti-corruption laws of all countries in which AHG operates.
- 2.4. If a law conflicts with a provision set out in this procedure, do comply with the law and consult with the relevant Integrity Committee rather than disregard the Anti-Bribery and Corruption Procedure entirely. However if a local custom or policy conflicts with this Anti-Bribery and Corruption Procedure, compliance to this Anti-Bribery and Corruption Procedure takes precedence.

- If at any point during the due diligence exercise or in dealings with a third party and representatives, there are conflicts of interest or "red flags" raised, these will warrant further investigation and must be adequately addressed before the engagement of the third party and representatives can progress.
- Due diligence should be made against the Corruption Perception Index.

Appendix 2: Types of Corruption

The United Nations Handbook on Practical Anti-Corruption Measures for Prosecutors and Investigators lists the more commonly encountered forms of corruption, which include:

- Petty Corruption: Also known as administrative corruption, it involves the exchange of very small amounts of money and the granting of small favors.
- Grand Corruption: Spreads through the highest levels of government, bringing about major abuses of power, disobedience of the rule of law, economic instability and the breakdown of good governance.
- Active and Passive Corruption: The former refers to the act of offering or paying a bribe (where the payment of a bribe has taken place) and the latter refers to the request or receiving of a bribe (a bribe was offered but not accepted).
- Bribery: Most common form of corruption, described as the act of conferring a benefit in order to influence an action or decision. It comes in the form of cash, company shares, inside information, sexual or other favors, entertainment, employment or future benefits such as a retirement job. The benefit can pass directly to the person bribed, or indirectly to a third party such as a friend, relative, associate, favorite charity, private business, political party or election campaign. Once bribery has occurred, it can lead to other forms of corruption.
- Embezzlement, Theft and Fraud: Involves stealing by an individual exploiting his or her position of employment. Fraud involves the use of false or misleading information to induce the owner of property to part with it voluntarily. Theft is universally regarded as falling within corruption definitions where it occurs, carrying with it as it does, a breach of a fiduciary duty.
- Abuse of Function: Performance of or failure to perform an act by a public official, in violation of the law, to obtain an undue advantage for himself/herself or for another person or entity.
- Favoritism and Nepotism: Involve abuses of discretion, usually does not involve a direct personal benefit to an official but promote the interests of those linked to the official, be it through family, political party, tribe or religious group.
- Creating and Exploiting Conflicting Interest: Most forms of corruption involve the creation or exploitation of some conflict between the professional responsibilities of an individual and his or her private interest. The offering of a bribe creates such a conflict where none may have existed hitherto. In both the public and private sectors, employees and officials are routinely confronted with circumstances in which their personal interests conflict with their responsibility to act in the best interests of the state or their employer. Well-run organizations have systems to manage these situations, usually based on clear codes of conduct.
- Improper Political Contribution: Donations made with the intention or expectation that the party will, once in office, unduly favor the interests of the donor, is tantamount to the payment of a bribe.
